You are eligible to apply for the Alberta Health Benefit (AAHB) Program in the following circumstances:

A. I am pregnant and my household has low income - You are eligible for the AAHB program until the end of the month (following) your expected delivery date, if your combined household income is equal to or less than the AAHB qualifying income level for your family type (refer to the brochure detailing income levels). Your children will also be included under the AAHB program. Following the birth of your child, all of your children will automatically be eligible for enrollment in the Alberta Child Health Benefit Program (ACHB). Each year our department will automatically assess continued eligibility for the AAHB program. Also, if you or a member of your household has an ongoing need for prescription drugs or diabetic supplies, the circumstances in "B" below may apply to you.

B. I, or a member of my household, has high ongoing prescription drug needs and my household has low income - You and your family are eligible for the AAHB program if your combined household income less the cost of prescription drugs and diabetic supplies is equal to or less than the AAHB qualifying income level for your family type (refer to the brochure detailing income levels). Each year our department will automatically assess your continued eligibility for the AAHB program.

If you or your children have any other health coverage (other than standard Alberta Health Care Insurance) please provide:
